

EDITORS SPEAK

Action without vision is like a nightmare and a vision without action is a day dream. We discovered this as we travelled the path of HAVOC-5. We hope to carry forward the legacy of its able forebearers.

HAVOC is an amalgam of our student s eccentricity, innovation, logic and insight without which the compilation would not have been possible.

During the year students participated in activities aimed at creating awareness about the importance of trees. Another exercise was for students and educators to discuss, brainstorm and realize that we all make mistakes, but it is important to accept them, improve and move on. Many students penned down their thoughts which have been selected for this edition.

The kaleidoscopic journey of compiling HAVOC has left us with extraordinary and unforgettable memories. The unanimous effort of all students has helped us inculcate the value of synergy in our lives.

We would like to extend our gratitude towards Sunil sir, Rajal ma am, Nandini ma am, Poonam ma am, Sagar sir, Sheelmani ma am, Nidhi ma am, Shweta ma am, Niyati ma am, Seema ma am and Pushpa ma am for giving us the platform to express our views and ideas throughout the endeavour and also helping and motivating us. We are thankful to all our teachers for guiding us through with their inputs and suggestions.

We are obliged to our illustrators - Aakash Trivedi, Aashna Kanuga, Abira Mansuri, Anand Shah, Archiesman Basu, Arushi Sethi, Asimanand Sahoo, Dhruvi Shah, Divyansh Golyan, Kishan Shah, Manthan Grover, Namrata Patel, Pankti Mashruwala, Pranati Bhow, Prateek Karajgikar, Raina Kishor, Ram Iyer, Richa Jhavar, Sanyam Gandhi, Tanya Khambolja and Vidhi Shah who contributed excellent and appropriate illustrations for the articles.

Our thanks and acknowledgment of credit to Arushi Sethi and Abira Mansuri for the innovative, yet classic cover design.

Last but not the least, our heartfelt thanks to all the students who contributed to HAVOC.

Eklavya will never run out of talent and HAVOC-5 is set to prove it.

If you find a rose - 🌹 that poem/article gets the Jury s choice award! The jury gave consideration to two aspects - the thought and the quality of its articulation.

From left to right:

Front row

1. Meet Jetly, Class 9
2. Aakash Trivedi, Class 8
3. Raina Kishor, Class 9

Middle row:

1. Saumya Mehta, Class 11
2. Alak Desai, Class 11

Last row:

1. Ram Iyer, Class 9
2. Rhea Choksi, Class 8

Standing:

1. Parita Bhungani, Class 11